

Omico.

Cancer
Meets its Match

CANCER AND GENOMIC PODCAST FOR THOSE DIAGNOSED WITH CHALLENGING CANCERS, THEIR FAMILIES AND CARERS

HOSTED BY DR GINNI MANSBERG

Omico, Australia's national not-for-profit organisation, is changing the way we fight cancer through precision oncology, comprehensive genomic profiling (CGP) and matching to precision clinical trials and treatments.

Now, we're bringing the power of precision oncology directly to you with our first ever podcast series!

The episodes feature conversations with clinical experts, researchers and advocacy professionals, as well as patients and family members to help demystify genomics and precision oncology.

Weekly Episodes commence February 10, 2025

Episode 1: Genomics & Cancer Unzipped (The Basics)

Episode 2: Inside Omico's Cancer Screening Program (CaSP)

Episode 3: Real Stories From Those Who Have Had CGP

Episode 4: Finding Your Match Through CGP

Episode 5: Inside A Modern-Day Clinical Trial – Experiences & Insights

Episode 6: Where To Find Precision Oncology Support

Episode 7: Insights From Loved Ones – Real Experiences

Episode 8: Future Prospects – What Lies Ahead?

Featuring:

Prof David Thomas,
Chief Science and Strategy Officer, Omico

Dr Damien Kee, Consultant Medical Oncologist, the Austin Hospital and Peter
MacCallum Cancer Centre, Melbourne

A/Prof Mandy Ballinger, Head of Cohorts,
Omico

A/Prof Rob Zielinski, Medical Oncologist,
Director of Cancer Clinical Trials Unit
Orange Base Hospital

A/ Prof James Lynam, Director,
Medical Oncology Department,
Calvary Mater Newcastle

Dr Nira Oliveira, Senior Medical Oncologist, Mater Hospital Brisbane

Laura Manual, Program Manager,
UNSW Centre for Molecular Oncology.

Christine Cockburn, Chief Executive Officer, Rare Cancers Australia

Cathy Slattery, Head of Patient Programs at Rare Cancers Australia

Anne Savage, Chief Executive Officer at Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia

Sue Hegarty, Head of Program Development & Advocacy at the Pancare Foundation

Vicky Durston, Director of Policy,
Advocacy & Support Services at Breast
Cancer Network Australia

Those living with real life experiences -
Emily Lahey, Beth Ivimey, and Caitlin Delaney.

And family members Tara Grant and Cheyanne Carmona.

Follow us on socials

☎ 1800 954 350
✉ contact@omico.org.au
🌐 Omico.com.au

Listen on

The Cancer Meets its match podcast series by Omico is created in Australia for Australians, offering insights tailored to the local context. They may also provide valuable knowledge for anyone around the world seeking to deepen their understanding of precision oncology.